PRICE FIVE CENTS

SECOND TRIANGULAR AIR SERVICE IS ANNOUNCED

Kershaw and Wallis Each To Serve Five Years Penitentiary and Jail Terms Given As Assize Closes

Mr. Justice Gregory Imposes Maximum Sentence Upon John Kershaw; S. E. Wallis Serves Five Years on Five Counts Aggregating Nineteen Years' Imprisonment; H. Clough Elects Jail for Year; Mrs. M. Pierce to Serve Year; K. C. Brown Given Eighteen Months.

Concurrent sentences aggregating nineteen years in the New Westminster penitentiary, of which five years will be served, was imposed upon Stanley E. Wallis this morning by Mr. Justice Gregory at the conclusion of the special assize which opened at the courthouse on May 7. The prisoner had pleaded guilty to two charges of forgery
and had been convicted on three charges of false pretences.

John Kershaw was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary.
His lordship stressing the fact that the sentence was the maximum permitted by statute for the offence of theft.

Three jail sentences imposed included, Mrs. Mabel Pierce, one year for false pretences in association with Wallis; Harry Clough, one year for uttering a forged cheque; Kenneth Clay
Brown, eighteen months for theft.

KERSHAW GETS LIMIT

John Kershaw being placed in the dock, Mr. Justice Gregory said, "You have been convicted of the theft of a considerable sum of money. The sentence imposed by this court could be five years with hard labor, have you anything to say in mitigation?"

"I am sorry for the shame and disgrace I have brought upon my wife and family," the prisoner replied. "I will be a better husband and man after
I have served the sentence the court
imposes."

His lordship said the prisoner was a man of intelligence, who had driven him personally, and his children, on many occasions. "I tried to keep your plight from the children, but they found out, as children will. On Saturday they came to me and appealed to me to let Johnnie go."

"You are educated, yet you have been false to as fine a woman as any man could have. The way you took this money was most disgraceful. The attack made on this woman you have ruined, and the way counsel you instructed turned his back on the jurors
and shrank up this woman, I do not think creditable performance. You propose to give me the limit the law
allows, five years, to date from to-day."

SYSTEMATIC CRIME

Stanley E. Wallis, up for sentence on five charges in connection with automobile financing, two being forgery
charges to which he had pleaded guilty
and three charges of false pretences on which he had been convicted, told the court "I regret very much having caused wrong to be done."

SUIT WON BY TRUSTEES OF DAVIS ESTATE

Montreal Judge Decides Lord
Shaughnessy and A. M.
Reaper to Continue

Montreal, June 30.—An action by Lady Eleanor Davis and Mortimer D.
Davis, her stepson, to remove Lord
Shaughnessy and Alexander M. Reaper, K.C. from the office as executors and trustees of the estate under the will of the late Sir Mortimer S. Davis failed in the Superior Court here to-day
when Mr. Justice E. Fabre Surveylor rendered judgment in the case, which has constituted a record for length in local court annals.

As to the question of costs, the judge said that although the principals on both sides appeared to take it, he granted the costs would follow the outcome of the case, he was not prepared to adjudicate on the question without further hearing. The parties will therefore be required to return at a later
date to argue the question of costs.

JUDGMENT IS ENDED
The judge today also dismissed a petition for a sequestration to administer the estate of the late Sir Mortimer Davis. The petition was filed by the trustees of the estate, who were required to return at a later date to argue the question of costs.

SUN TRYING TO MAKE UP HIS AVERAGE

Fifteen Hours of Sunshine Is Needed to Complete June,
According to Schedule

First Six Months Above the Average; Precipitation and Temperature Below

With the sun shining bravely
after the week-end's sullen sky,
hopes were entertained that the month of June would approximate its average before to-night. To-date there have been 360 hours of sunshine during the month.

This is just fifteen hours below the average, but with the final day not yet completed, F. Hooper Denison, of the Gonzales Hill Observatory, expressed
the opinion that the closing figures
would bring the total within an hour
or two of the average.

"From the general appearance of the weather map this morning, the city
and lower island should have fine,
warm weather for several days," the weather man announced.

While June has been slightly behind in sunshine this year, Victoria
has enjoyed a longer period of its beneficent rays for the first six months than in the average case. Up to this morning, the city has experienced 1,122
hours of sunshine, while the average is only 1,061.

TEMPERATURE LOW

During the present month the mean
temperature has been fifty-six degrees,
one degree below the average. The hottest day of the year to date was recorded on June 13, when the mercury climbed to eighty-two degrees. The following day, after the severe storm which raked the city, it dropped to its lowest point in the month, going down
to forty-five degrees in the evening,
and thirty-seven on the morning of the lower station, it dropped still another degree.

Total precipitation for June was .66
of an inch, while in 1929 the average was .82 inches. The total rainfall for the first six months of the year is below the usual standard. To date it stands at 10.71 inches, while the average is 12.47.

NOT AS BAD AS 1929

However, this year has not suffered from drought as severely as 1929. Last year, at the corresponding date, only 2.82 inches of rain had fallen.
As far as temperature is concerned,
this year, the spring season proved exceptionally balmy. February, March and April were all slightly above the average, while May and June were both a little below.

FIVE DROWNED IN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, June 30.—Drownings claimed four lives in Manitoba as pleasure-seekers flocked to resorts over the week-end. A fifth death by drowning was believed indicated by recovery of a cap and a life preserver. Ten persons were injured in automobile
accidents and other misadventures.

TWO YEARS MORE TO FINISH CANADA'S VIMY MEMORIAL

Quebec, June 30.—Owing to the slow pace of dealing with eight battlefield sites
of the Vimy Ridge Memorial and the complexity of design, as well as the large amount of material, the completion of the memorial is necessarily
a slow business, and cannot be accomplished before two or three years, according to Col. Henry Osborne, secretary-general of the Canadian agency of the Imperial War Graves Commission,
and honorary secretary of the Canadian Battlefields Memorial Commission.

Chicago Fliers Set Endurance Record

Hunter Brothers, as Plane
Circles Field on Nineteenth
Day, Say They Hope to Fly
600 Hours

Canadian Press

Chicago, June 30.—Having out-
riden a terrific thunder storm
and overcome trouble in refueling, the Hunter Brothers tonight
went to sleep to-day to prolong their record endurance airplane flight
over the Sky Harbor Airport. At 2.40
p.m. C.S.T. (12.40 p.m. Victoria time) to-day they flew through their 455th hour and kept the monoplane, "City of Chicago,"
toward their intended goal,
the Fourth of July and twenty-
three days continuous flying.

Already they had eclipsed the world
record for such a flight by thirty-five hours, and their motor was functioning well.
Early this afternoon the pilots dropped a note saying they hoped to remain up until the 600th hour was reached.

ON THE GROUND

On the ground, watching with admiring eyes, was the remainder of the Hunter family—three of them a part of the flight—all of them from Sparta, Illinois.

John and Kenneth Hunter, pilots
of the endurance plane, are worn and unhappy but determined. Walter and Albert, with the plane, Big Ben, are furnishing fuel and food contacts with the record breakers. Sister Irene is still cooking the food that keeps Walter and Albert well and eager for the wearing grind, and mother Hunter puts the backs of her three children on the ground and sends word of encouragement to the two boys in the air.

The flight at 10.40 a.m. had consumed 4,270 gallons of gasoline and 235 gallons of oil.

POPE DECLARES ROME NEEDS MORE PRIESTS

Vatican City, June 30.—"Protestant proselytizing" in Rome must be combated by an increased number of priests, the Pope declared today in a private audience to the visiting countess of the city, Pope Pius XI declared to-day in an allocution opening a secret consistory at which five cardinals were created.

The Pope's allocution said certain recent laws of Italy which seemed to favor Protestant activities "seem to be in strong contrast with the spirit and
letter of the solemn Lateran conventions."

The Pope said the Protestant sects from 1850, the year in which the Italian troops took Rome from the Holy See, "have not ceased to carry out the work of 'corrosion and conquest with ever-growing insistence.'"
Observers believed he had in mind
the missionary activities of United States Methodists, although he mentioned no specific denomination.

1,600-MILE FLIGHT MADE BY COLUMBIA

Famous Transatlantic Plane Flown From New York to Bermuda and Return

Pilot Roger Q. Williams, and His Two Companions See
Many Sharks

Valley Stream, N.Y., June 30.—

The battered old monoplane Columbia, which Clarence Chamberlain flew from New York to Germany in 1927 after he and Bert Acosta had established a world
duration record with it, to-day had another pioneering flight to its credit.

Piloted by Roger Q. Williams, veteran of a transatlantic flight from Maine to Rome, the plane landed here at 9.03 o'clock E.S.T. yesterday evening after a non-stop, round-trip flight of 1,600
miles between New York and Bermuda.
With Williams were Harry E. Connor, a navy-trained navigator, who achieved the difficult feat of guiding
the plane to the coral reef that is Bermuda; and Errol Boyd, former British Royal Air Force aviator. They made the 1,600-mile air jaunt in seventeen
hours.

STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW

Describing their flight, the airman
said that, having hopped off from Roosevelt Field at 4.01 a.m. E.S.T., they flew straight as an arrow toward Bermuda and experienced no trouble finding it, although they were hampered by fog for considerable distances and by intermittent showers, which became a downpour at Bermuda.

Circling over Bermuda, they looked for a place to land, because the rain
had caused one magnet to cut out.

"There wasn't a place to land," Williams said, "so we decided to come home, figuring as soon as we reached the magnet would be all right."
It was.

So they headed homeward, soaring
over the Long Island air fields at 8.25
E.S.T. They reached Roosevelt Field about 9 p.m. Saturday. He declared it was unusual because of a home to land there, and so came to Curtis Field, landing at 9.03 p.m.

tion to the Royal Columbian Hospital, where he died at 4 a.m. Sunday. It is believed his skull was fractured.
He is survived by a widow and six children.

ISLANDERS FORCE BACK REBEL UNIT

Strategic Move on Right Flank
Carries Objective of Attacking Forces

Inlanders Driven Back to Ship
By Terrific Onslaught of
Col. Martyn's Troops

(The Times War Correspondent)

Sixteenth Canadian Scottish
Headquarters, Maple Bay, V.I.— Partial success was claimed by the attacking "Vanes" force under Lieutenant-Colonel D. B. Martyn, D.S.O., after a two-hour engagement here this morning. Attacking on a front 3,000 yards in-width the Vancouver Island Brigade managed to penetrate the right flank of the rebel B.C. Force which was beaten back to the shelter of its ship in Maple Bay.

At 11 o'clock both sides suspended
hostilities until this afternoon,
when the "Vanes" anticipate a counter attack by the invaders.
The decisive part of the action this morning came on the enemy's right flank after a demonstration on the extreme left had diverted attention to that point.
Great mobility was displayed by
Col. Martyn's brigade throughout the encounter.

Field phones buzzed prior to the
zero hour at 7.30 o'clock this morning and units were moved into place in preparation for the attack. At 8 o'clock
the assault started with a smoke barrage, while the attackers moved up under a heavy bombardment by the howitzers and Lewis guns.

Overhead, allied and enemy planes conducted scouting operations and reconnoitred.

The main part of the fighting took place on Bassett's Farm.
Approximately 1,000 officers and men took part in the engagement.
Weather was clear and visibility
good.

INVADERS LAND

Transported by vessel, a force from Greater Vancouver successfully effected a secret landing at Maple Bay
on Saturday afternoon. Under cover of thickly wooded slopes surrounding the bay the invaders mobilized their forces about two miles inland, pitching
camp in a sheltered grass carpeted plateau near Lake Quamichan. Plans were to invest Duncan and proceed towards Esquimalt, the capture of which would place Victoria at the mercy of the invaders.

Messages received by Lieut.-Col. P. Mackenzie,
D.S.O., commander of the Mainland
Force, that Vancouver Island units
were mobilizing rapidly and preparing for a rapid move by rail and motor transport of a striking force to points
on the east coast. Col. Mackenzie immediately arranged a system of outposts and prepared to meet the attack

FLOOD LOSSES AT SUDBURY $250,000

Conditions in That District of Ontario Return to Normal

Canadian Press

Sudbury, Ont., June 30.—Normal
conditions are restored in the Sudbury
district to-day after a period in which flood waters caused some $250,000 damage. Traffic has been resumed on both the railways and highways excepting a considerable stretch of highway between Victoria Mines and Main Centre. At that point the Vermilion and Spanish Rivers have both overflowed their banks and the road is under two to six feet of water, making
a complete barrier to traffic.

Storage dams on the upper Spanish River had to be released, on Friday to relieve the pressure before greater damage was done, and abnormal water conditions have resulted. The North Bay-Sudbury railway, which was opened to traffic last night, when the repairs were completed to the big sink-hole in the road that went out
at the same time as the C.P.R. slide occurred.

Passenger trains are back to normal
schedule and freight trains are moving freely.

It is said the damage to railway and public property from washouts and replacements alone will run upward of a quarter of a million dollars.

All-India Nationalist Congress, and Sued Mahmud, congress secretary, were arrested at Allahabad to-day for offences in connection with the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign.

Officials searched the rooms of the committee, and seals were put on the doors as Nehru and Mahmud were taken to the central jail at Allahabad.
They will be tried to-morrow. Processions and a hartal, or stoppages of work, are being organized in the city
in protest at the arrests.

Pandit Motilal Nehru is a brother of Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the congress, arrested some time since the sentencing to prison for his part in the civil disobedience campaign.
The Nationalist Congress working committee, which Sunday conducted a three-day secret discussion of the po-

the work.

One of the incidental features of the agreement provided for the ac-

CONTEST SEEN BETWEEN TWO CHURCH GROUPS

Low Church Anglicans Oppose High Church Open Air Service in London

London, June 30.—Thousands of members of the high and low church parties of the Church of England nearly came to blows on the Chelsea football
ground yesterday.

The field was chosen by the Anglo-
Catholic Congress for an open air celebration of high mass to inaugurate its sessions.

Twenty-five thousand high church-
men arrived at the field Sunday morning and found a large body of low churchmen bearing banners inscribed
with the words, "No Popery," and distributing texts and handbills and shouting exhortations through megaphones.

Anglo-Catholics, who came from all parts of the country, finally made their way into the arena, and the service was started.

With its first notes the tumult of
low church assests died down.
Trouble at the ceremony had been anticipated as the low church party
had appealed to the Bishop of London and to the Prime Minister to prevent the service.

Mr. Lowe arrived here over the week-end in his own airplane.

The seaplane base will be located on the site in the Inner Harbor approved
by the Department of Civil Aviation,
at the foot of Erie Street. Three lots
in this area have been leased to Mr.
Lowe and his associates for a ten-
year period at the rate of $1.00 a year
and taxes, which amount to slightly over $700.

Three eleven-passenger amphibian
planes will be used on the daily service between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, in accordance with the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign.

Officials searched the rooms of the
committee, and seals were put on the

COWICHAN LOG CAMPS CLOSED

Shutdown Is Indefinite In
Some Places Owing to Poor
Market

With the closing down to-day of the Empire Lumber Company's Camp 4, one of the largest logging settlements on the lake, logging operations at Cowichan Lake
were brought practically to a standstill.

Most of the other large camps on the lake ceased logging last week, several hundred men being forced into idleness through the shutdowns.

The Hemington Logging Company at Camp 4 has been closed for the last week while McDonald and Murphy shut down on Friday.

Although the camps shut down each year about this time owing to the fire hazard and for the annual overhaul, the present shutdown is indefinite in some areas owing to the un-
stability of the lumber market.

Camp 6 is expected to open up
again early in September.
The mill at Youbou, which is fed
by logs from Camp 4, will continue operations, it is

Years Yield to New Treatment; Gains Ten Pounds

"I suffered ten years with as bad a case of stomach trouble as any man ever had. It was impossible for me to enjoy a meal on account of indigestion and an uncomfortable, bloated feeling

ROBERT A. STRATE

after meals. At times I would get faint and dizzy like I was going to faint and it took every bit of my will power to keep going. My liver was sluggish and my whole system was filled with poisons. I would wake up in the morning dead tired, and my back ached so, I could hardly pull myself out of bed. I was entirely run down, my skin was an unhealthy color and I didn't seem to have any strength or energy at all.

"Five bottles of this wonderful Sargon made me feel like a new man. I've gained over ten pounds and my stomach trouble has disappeared. I am rid of that backache, and I've got as much strength and vitality as I had twenty years ago; my blood pressure is back to normal and my whole system is in healthy condition.

"I've never found a laxative to equal Sargon Soft Mass Pills. They stimulated my liver and regulated me perfectly. It's a real pleasure for me to recommend the Sargon treatment."

The above statement was made recently by Robert A. Strate, prominent business man of Oklahoma City, Okla., who is owner and general manager of the Bakery Equipment Co., 3 North Dewey Street, and is probably the most successful jobber of complete equipment for bakeries in the state. Mr. Strate lives at 425 West 24th St.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores and in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Co. (Adv.)

PREMIER SENDS A MESSAGE TO BEREAVED ONES

Ottawa, June 30.—Expressing the sympathy of the Government in the losses suffered by the bereaved relatives of the thirty men who were killed in last Thursday's disaster, Premier King on Saturday sent the following telegram to Mayor Donaldson of Brockville, Ont.

"While en route from the Maritime Provinces to Ottawa, I have received full particulars of the tragic disaster which occurred at Brockville on Thursday and brought sorrow and suffering in its wake to so many families of your city. On behalf of the Government of Canada, I desire to extend this expression of our deepest sympathy to your community and hope you will convey this message to the relatives of those whose lives were lost as a result of the explosion. You also be kind enough to convey to those who were injured our sincere sympathy and our hope for their rapid recovery."

SOME UNUSUAL SHRUBS

By JOHN HUTCHISON, F.R.H.S.

Flowering shrubs are needed in every garden but they are needed the most in the gardens of those who have but a little time to devote to gardening.

Evergreen shrubs are needed so as to add to the winter effect of the garden, and leaving aside the conifers, there are many shrubs that may be chosen for this purpose.

The Kalmia, or Mountain Laurel, are among the most beautiful of shrubs, their foliage is evergreen and their flowers are charming. They thrive best in moist peaty soil, but will give a good account of themselves in any light ground. Their pink wax-like flowers are produced in June, just after the rhododendrons and azaleas are over. Probably the three best kinds are Kalmia latifolia, which is dwarf and compact, Kalmia angustifolia, which is about two feet high, and Kalmia glauca.

The heaths are most useful in the right kind of soil which means peat or at any rate leaf mould free from lime. Erica carnea (the Alpine forest heath) is a jewel, and as hardy as any shrub, it comes into bloom about Christmas, no matter what the weather may be like, and continues until April or May. It is dwarf, and its deep rosy flowers carpet the ground at a time when there is hardly a flower out of doors. This heath will grow in any ordinary garden soil, which fact makes it very valuable. There are a great number of heaths, both species and hybrids, and a collection of these can be made a garden feature where the soil is suitable, and by a careful choice of kinds one may have heaths in bloom at most seasons of the year.

There are a number of brooms that are little known in gardens. We all know the common broom, the Spanish broom and the white broom, but how do we see Dyer's Greenweed, or to give it its proper name, Genista tinctoria? This is a native of England and is seldom more than eighteen inches in height. It is a spireshrub, bearing a profusion of bright yellow flowers from July until September.

Again, how often do we see the purple broom (Cytisus purpureus), which comes from eastern Europe, and is a low spreading shrub with purple flowers which appear from May onward? Of this there are several varieties, and all are interesting and attractive. One could go on and describe some twenty brooms, all of which are fit subjects for even the most exclusive garden.

Another shrub that is not grown as much as it should be is Berberis stenophylla. This plant is not particularly as to soil, but is better in light loam with good drainage. It will be beautiful in any position, overhanging a terrace or a path, or on a steep bank, or on the summit of a series of rocks. It may be used as a hedge plant, but should only be pruned just after flowering is over and allowed to grow without restriction for the rest of the year. Planted in grass in the wild garden it will develop into a large shrub. One specimen in England at the age of thirty-four years, is twelve feet high and thirty-six feet in diameter. In April and May this Berberis is covered with golden flowers which appear at every leaf axil, and these are followed by blue-black fruits which seem to be eaten by the birds as they vanish very quickly.

A very hardy shrub, which may be used in the rock garden or in the shrubbery, is Enkianthus campanulatus; it is very effective with dark red, waxy, bell shaped flowers which appear early in the spring. It has orange-red foliage in the fall. Not often seen in gardens, but a very choice subject.

The family of Crataegus or thorns, are well worth considering. A variety known as Paul's Scarlet has double red flowers, and is most attractive. While the variety crus-galli has showy red fruits which remain during the whole winter.

The Caragana or Siberian pea tree is well known to people from the prairies, but there is a variety of this which is a little out of the ordinary, and at present little known in British Columbia. It is called Bolot. It is conspicuous by its long thorns, bright foliage, which remains on the shrub until frost. It has long pendulous shoots, bearing under a profusion of flowers in the early spring. It is of east iron hardness.

We think of an oak as a slow growing tree, but this is not the case with the Pin Oak (Quercus palustris), which makes rapid growth and is a handsome shrub when young, and a tree later in life. The foliage is bright red in the fall of the year. A most desirable tree for the garden.

Another oak which makes growth rapidly is the Water Oak (Quercus nigra). These are just a few of the many uncommon shrubs which might be considered by those who are about to undertake a garden, and who wish to have something different.

This is the time of the year to look round, visit the nurseries and the gardens of friends so that when planting time comes, three months hence, one may have a knowledge of the plants one wishes to introduce into the garden.

CANADA'S BIRTHDAY

AS CANADA CELEBRATES HER SIXTY-third birthday she finds herself in the midst of a general election campaign. There is nothing in this circumstance to cause the Canadian people to worry. Governments come and governments go; but this young and virile country will grow in strength and influence as the years pass.

History proves, however, that greatness in a nation depends upon the character of its people rather than upon the extent of its area or material wealth. So while we may take every satisfaction from our national balance sheet in regard to trade and commerce, production and business, from the facts that Canadians hold nearly seventy per cent of Canadian securities, and that our per-capita wealth is one of the largest among the nations of the world, we must remember that righteousness alone "exalteth a nation," that it must have in its citizenship qualities which no money can buy and which, once lost, could never be restored by all the wealth which has been garnered since the dawn of history.

It is not necessary to emphasize the fact that records of material progress do not furnish assurance of permanent greatness. For these, after all, are old, old stories. History is full of the wrecks of nations that became rich in material resources, which lapsed into obscurity when those resources began to fail, and which are now almost forgotten. Canada has vast resources, but they are not illimitable. Some of them are being rapidly depleted and cannot be restored. At the very best, they are only transitory contributors to progress; in them there is no guarantee that we shall be anything more than a geographical expression a few centuries hence. In the long run, therefore, however important they may be in the present, they do not count for permanence any more than their material resources counted for the permanent glory of ancient Assyria or medieval Spain.

What does count for permanent pride of place in history is the character of a nation's citizenship; the strength of its moral and mental fibres, its contributions to the arts and sciences, its humanitarian zeal, its sense of justice, the value it sets upon human factors and the rights of the individual. These are the only true foundations of enduring greatness, and without them against the perspective of time the most opulent balance sheet is like a mere flash in the pan. For the cultivation of these virtues we have to look to the home, our religious and educational institutions, not to the castles of industry and finance.

To a considerable extent naturally the character of the men who control the nation's affairs is a potent factor in the nation's progress. To them belongs the duty of setting an example of propriety in public life. Canada has been fortunate in her statesmen. She has been singularly free of those "incidents" which bring what goes by the name of politics into disrepute. Our people will see to it that they continue to be well served.

IN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

CANADA'S ECONOMIC CONDITION, according to the most reliable financial authorities, is still considerably more favorable than that of the United States.

Professionally bullish business propaganda, poured out from official high places at Washington in order to keep business stimulated—much of it contradicted by economists and business men—is being blamed for aggravating the situation here. Senator D. L. Walsh, of Massachusetts, who, according to a well-known Canadian correspondent at Washington, is "a conservative man of considerable wealth, the kind of man who could be trusted never to 'rock the boat,'" spoke in the Senate the other day as follows:

I have reason to believe that the business of this country is in a very serious and critical condition. I have just been home in my state for three days, where I have seen depressed business conditions that have grieved and pained me. The unemployment conditions in the country, the lack of business prosperity from other causes than the tariff, are bad enough without adding to the present handicap of business by prolonging the uncertainty in regard to the disposition of the tariff bill.

The Financial Post, the leading business publication of Canada, points out in contrast to this, that there is every hope of the Canadian situation, which dipped below normal for the first time in many years last April, mending quickly. Only a few May statistics are available as yet, but these—such as wheat, carloadings, wheat movement, power output and so forth—indicate a fairly encouraging amount of strength. Added to this is the fact that the Financial Post index of business activity finished the month in a strong upward movement.

Outside of the Dunning budget, and its British Preference clauses—especially the bitterest of opposition speakers in the present election campaign—have been able to find little with which to attack the government, except the fact that business in some lines is not of the boom proportion characteristic of a few months ago. It is particularly disconcerting to these Conservative politicians to have to admit that Canada is standing up better under the present world-wide depression than other major countries, and with the contrast most vivid in the case of the United States.

If the slowing up here had been of greater proportions, with what eagerness they would have blamed the government and its policies. But they shy at giving credit to a government at Ottawa which has conducted the affairs of this country with unusual sanity and kept the Dominion on an even keel—and all this in the face of outside economic influences.

COMBINED ART WITH INDUSTRY

WEDGWOOD IS A NAME KNOWN everywhere in the western world where the finer handicrafts are appreciated—and because of that an unusual interest has been attracted by Wedgwood Week in the Potteries, during which England has been officially celebrating the bicentenary of the great potter's birth.

The combination in Wedgwood of originality of mind, technical mastery and purity of taste amounted to genius. His father was a Burslem potter and came of a family which had produced many good potters in Staffordshire during the seventeenth century. Josiah raised the family name from local reputation to national and international fame. He started working at the potter's wheel at the age of nine, with little education to help him, and smallpox left him a lifelong cripple. His daring ideas made men of less original mind shy of working with him, but he was a pioneer whom difficulties could not hold back. He went on alone, devising and testing new methods, inspired by a vision of the potter's craft, rising to its ancient heights as an art.

The time was ripe for such an advance. Fashion had brought in the drinking of coffee and tea, and given the potter his chance of producing beautiful vessels in which to serve them. The imitation of classical antiquity was all the rage. By his use of classical prototypes Wedgwood established the first principle of modern pottery. He was content with nothing less than the best in design and materials. Flaxman was engaged as one of his artists. By assiduous experiment he perfected his world-famous Jasper ware.

To Wedgwood's Etruria works at Hanley came orders, not only from all over Britain, but from distant parts of Europe. In his earlier days the Empress Catherine of Russia ordered two dinner services of nearly a thousand pieces, and from that time to this the industry he created has maintained its prestige, with a track beaten by the buyers of the world to its doors. He combined the highest in classical art with modern industry, and the world responded with an enduring appreciation.

ANOTHER LESSON IN ECONOMICS

SO-CALLED MARKETING EXPERTS called in to advise our legislative committees and various groups of producers during recent years on means of controlling production and putting up prices, used to quote the success of the grape growers of California. They related the miracle of the Associated Raisin Growers, how in their first year of control they put up the price of grapes from an average of 3.46 cents a pound to 4.21, and then over the next six years forced it up to 10 cents a pound.

Now the rest of the story is being told. High prices stimulated production, which swamped growers' distributing organizations and markets. Buying was curtailed because of the price. Growers' organizations collapsed under the burden. An appeal has been made to the Federal Farm Board to use public funds to get them out of the hole.

The grape crop averages 2,000,000 tons, of which 300,000 tons is surplus. To buy up this surplus of their own production, the growers are now to be assessed $1.50 a ton on their total crop. And even that is considered only a temporary measure.

"Records of the industry prove that as long as raisins were selling at a price in line with other foods, the industry was healthy," the Associated Growers' manager explains. "When prices soared to a level out of line with other foods, trouble began."

Many persons concerned with attempts to control the price of certain Canadian agricultural products are beginning to talk the same way. The trouble is that in all such moves to control prices there is a tendency to forget the buyers. Experience proves that all crops were made to sell and that sound plans of removing the surplus have always been based on inducing the market to consume it.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

RIVAL TARIFFS
The Toronto Globe

A trade drama of tremendous importance is being unfolded on the North American continent, with Canada and the United States as separate participants. The Hawley-Smoot Bill and the Dunning Budget are so poised in principle that if the former lessens exports and increases unemployment the latter should increase exports and lessen unemployment. The one closes the door to outside trade; the other opens it wider.

MR. BENNETT AND THE WATERWAY
The Toronto Star

Prior to 1927 the traditional Conservative policy, particularly in Ontario, contemplated the improvement of the St. Lawrence River by joint international action. But since Quebec power grabbers deluded the Winnipeg convention with the idea that Canada could do as she pleased in the international stretch of the river the support necessary for the making of progress has been lacking and the project has been blocked. Mr. Bennett may be beginning to sense the error of his party. . . . If Mr. Bennett really has modified his views he should say so more explicitly and make his actions consistent with his opinions, turning his back forever upon the fictitious all-Canadian project.

CONVENTION MEMORIES
The New York Sun

(A New York warehouse, destroyed by fire at the beginning of the month, was found to be an immense distillery.) It now develops that no agent of the national state or city government can find any record of this plant. The article who gave the license for installation or boilers, the inspectors who enforce the factory laws, the police who are charged with the task of acquainting themselves with what goes forward under their eyes—all are innocent of knowledge of a big, odoriferous and busy factory turning out thousands of gallons of alcohol daily. These men were killed in the Wood's Tavern fire. The article who gave the license for installation or boilers, the inspectors who enforce the factory laws, the police who are charged with the task of acquainting themselves with what goes forward under their eyes—all are innocent of knowledge of a big, odoriferous and busy factory turning out thousands of gallons of alcohol daily. ## Loose Ends

Canada prepares to mark its birthday—we find a great tragedy in an old log—for the ants have left us in despair.

By H. E. W.

TOMORROW will be Dominion Day, the anniversary of our nationhood. Throughout the land very properly the occasion will be marked by ceremonies and speeches, and the lessons of Confederation will be impressed upon young Canadians everywhere. But for Canadians who know, even a little, of their country, there is something in being a Canadian which no ceremony and no speech of man can remotely indicate. To be a Canadian at this time in the world's history is to enjoy a manner of living which is the envy of most other nations, but there is more to it than that. To be a Canadian is to feel that you have a part, even if it is a small part, in something very great that is developing in our country. It is the sense, I suppose, of youth and accomplishment and a feeling that there is room here for a full and a free life.

To a foreigner it is impossible to convey any adequate notion of these things which make Canada so goodly a land to live in. To understand it he must have lived there for himself. He must have seen the waves rolling in off the Pacific and pounding on the rocks of our coast in a December gale—sunshine filtering through the timber in a great coast forest, where there is that mingled smell of cedar, fir, and dank underbrush—yellow cottonwood smeared across the hills of the drybelt in the autumn—red apples through unbending miles of orchard—a log cabin back in the hills with a little patch of pasture, a horse or two and a settler who has nothing, but is his own man—sunrise over the snows in the highest Rockies—wild flowers coloring the green prairies of spring as far as the eye can reach—grain, yellow and waving in the wind, endless miles of it sweeping on and on to the horizon—winter on the rocky north shore of the Great Lakes, with the little Christmas trees weighted down by their white load, and perhaps a lonely dog team mushing into the north—maple trees meeting over the streets of an Ontario town on a sleepy summer day, or crimson by the cornfields after the first fall frosts—Niagara thundering above as you stand at the very bottom of the falls—the lazy sweep of the Ottawa—with the spires of Parliament lowering up through the trees—Quebec in April, with the ice getting out in great green chunks down the St. Lawrence, only to come back again with the tide, and the habitation farmers bring their bricks of golden maple sugar to the open-air market and tell you of its virtues in broken sentences from the rostrum, and the soda where there are little stone cottages and the sound of church bells through the evening air, where the foreigner has seen such things and felt the grip of them on his spirit, until they seem to belong to him as his very bones, and he will perhaps understand what we mean when we say we are Canadians.

ABOUT a year ago, I think, this column, with typical west-mindlessness about such things, described a rare phenomenon which it had got out of our way; to be exact up in the fir woods past the place where the white rabbit died. There, I think this column said, an old log lay on the ground and at one end of it was a pile of sawdust which seemed to flow from the rotting heart of the log, and dump it down on the pile. The ant colony worked so hard on the log, indeed, that several grains of sawdust were constantly in mid-air, falling downward. In an endless procession, the ants, like the black miners, would come streaming out of the dark recesses of their home, thrust themselves far out over the edge, with their hind legs, and heave their sawdust burden down with the front ones. Then they would turn about and hurry back for another load. A few of them refused to work and under an excellent arrangement which our race has not yet adopted, these parasites were promptly ejected, after first being carefully killed, and their bodies were soon buried in the sawdust. And sometimes, deep in those mysterious tunnels which the ants had burrowed for themselves, you could distinguish in the shadow the forms of two giant ants battling to the death. Later one of them would be carried out and dropped into the sawdust.

OPENED this strange little world at its work. Deeply we pondered the life of the ants in their log. Once we blocked up some of the holes with pieces of wood to see what effect this would have. Usually it caused consternation among the miners and, unable to reach the sawdust pile with their burdens, they would become hopelessly entangled in traffic jams and some would be trapped to death. A few of them, after one of these experiments, we let the ants last fall, still busy at work, and we went back to have a look at them yesterday. The sawdust was still there; so were the holes in the log and the pieces of wood which we had placed there. The ants had not moved. We had let them alone for a week, and they had not moved. We had let them alone for a week, and they had not moved. We had let them alone for a week, and they had not moved.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, JUNE 30, 1905

To-morrow morning the members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will arrive in Victoria from Seattle for the convention, which opens during the day.

H.M.S. Shearwater left for Vancouver yesterday to be present at the Dominion Day celebration in that city.

The U.S.S. Company's steamer Camouca will be placed in commission next week on the run between Vancouver and northern British Columbia.

Weather forecast: Victoria and vicinity—Light to moderate southerly winds, fair and moderately warm, to-day and Sunday.

Yesterday afternoon the fifteenth annual meeting of the subscribers and donors of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital was held in the council chamber of the city hall.

Dominion Day will be celebrated very unostentatiously. As usual no demonstration has been arranged, and it is likely that the city will wear a deserted appearance, as a great many citizens will take advantage of the rates in vogue from here to Vancouver.

The Victoria baseball team suffered defeat yesterday at the hands of Bellingham by a score of 5 to 3. Local fans had the opportunity, however, of seeing a number of new players in action for the first time. These included Jacobs, Earle and Martine.

CANONIZATION CEREMONIES AT ST. PETER'S

Eight Canadian Missionaries of Seventeenth Century Are Made Saints

Pope Pius Cheered By Great Congregation After the Service

Written for the Canadian Press by Maud Hawley, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Vatican City, June 29.—The continent of North America at last has its own particular saints—the eight Jesuit missionaries who suffered and died for their faith in Canada about the middle of the seventeenth century. In the course of a long and imposing service in St. Peter's Basilica yesterday morning, Pope Pius XI, in a "document" of the universal church, solemnly decreed they should be "inscribed in the catalogue of the saints" and ordained that "their memory be kept with most pious devotion."

PILOT KILLED IN CRASH AT PORT ARTHUR

J. O. Leach Loses Life When Seaplane Falls in Harbor

Port Arthur, Ont., June 30.—Major John O. Leach of Sault Ste. Marie was killed here when his seaplane crashed in the harbor at 3.15 yesterday afternoon. Thousands of people on the waterfront witnessed the tragedy. Major Leach was manoeuvring the machine over the water when suddenly his engine stalled and the plane fell.

The wrecked plane was recovered three-quarters of an hour after the accident by a dredge which lifted the machine by means of a derrick.

Major Leach was a veteran of the air service in the Great War and was assistant to Capt. Roy Maxwell, in charge of the Ontario provincial air service. He was shot down by Right-bolton, famous German war ace, during the war, with the result that he lost his right leg.

A widow and three children survive him. They live at Barrie, Ont.

The late Major Leach was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leach, of Upland, former residents of Toronto.

Kirkham Sells Deep Cove Chalet To Winnipeg Man

The Chalet at Deep Cove, North Saanich, summer resort hotel built by the B.C. Electric Railway, Ltd., at the terminal of its former interurban line, has been sold by H. O. Kirkham, who has operated it for the last couple of seasons, to Horace R. Pratt, of Winnipeg. With the building are six and one-half acres of improved land, 700 feet of waterfront, tennis court, bathing and boat-houses, five summer cottages and a beer licence.

The main chalet building has guest bedrooms and dining room and the wide verandahs surrounding it have recently been enclosed in glass by Mr. Kirkham to make tea sun rooms.

Mrs. Pratt is to be new hostess at the resort.

QUEBEC TOWNS HEAR BENNETT

Ormatown, Que., June 30.—With three meetings crowded into the day, Mon. R. B. Bennett, Federal Conservative leader, here late on Saturday concluded the first portion of his Quebec campaign. At La Prairie he spoke in the afternoon and afterward at Caugnawaga en route. The chief topic of his speeches was agriculture, especially fruits, vegetables, butter and eggs.

Mr. Bennett said he favored Dominion assistance toward a bridge across the St. Lawrence at Lachine, "but not a toll bridge, which will prevent farmers getting their products to the market cheaply."

The meeting in Ormatown was preceded by a procession.

Last night Mr. Bennett departed for the Maritime Provinces to open his itinerary at St. John, N.B.

SOOKE ALPINE CAMP OPENED

About Forty Members Start Annual Tours of Exploration Among Western Hills

Pushing back into the less known areas in the Sooke district, about forty members of the Vancouver Island branch of the Alpine Club of Canada started their annual camp in that locality today. Advance bodies, under the leadership of C. L. Harrison, made their way to the camp base at Seven Hills over the week-end and prepared for the tent colony which followed today.

This year the number taking part in the event is larger than ever before and an ambitious schedule of hikes and trips of exploration has been prepared. Camp will be struck on Wednesday, July 3.

Supplies have been conveyed to the Lake of the Seven Hills, while more rugged hills have been taken to the sub-camp at Mount Empress, where the more enthusiastic members can start their tours of exploration immediately.

GREAT FACILITIES

A radio, gramophone, and large supply of fresh meat and vegetables were transported to the major base on Saturday on a pack train under the charge of S. W. Batten. This year the club will be able to utilize the large permanent eating house it has erected at the Lake of the Seven Hills. Cooking arrangements have also been improved, while the storehouse has been made a permanent structure.

The club's canoe and rubber boat will again be available, and should add greatly to the entertainment of visitors.

BIG BONFIRES

Starting to-morrow evening at 10:30 o'clock bonfires will be lit at the top of Mount Empress. Six people will attend the camp each night until the tents are struck.

Following is a list of those who are attending the ten days' camp: Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Harrison; K. Chudwick, Cyril Chave, Miss J. Bell, Gordon Cameron, A. Darcy, W. H. Douglas, Mrs. Hadow, Miss "Bobbie" Hadow, Miss Marjorie Haynes, Miss Mary Haynes, A. Haynes, Mr. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, J. Holmes, Miss Holmes, Miss G. John, Miss M. Little, Captain Lloyd, Miss H. Melton, Dr. Mitchell, Miss P. Pen, Miss B. Pen, Miss G. Pen, Miss Margaret Watson, Miss K. Woolston, Mrs. John Nairn, Captain and Mrs. Fleming, Miss E. Loughhead, Miss Hind, L. Bosch, Miss Vesey and several visitors.

Dr. H. G. Harris

Is Interested In

How Plants Feed

While nine-tenths of the population are concerned with diets, rationals, calories and vitamins Dr. H. G. Harris research specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of British Columbia, is studying the feeding habits and the food preferences of the lowly citizens of the plant world.

The last session of the Provincial Legislature made a special grant of $7,500 to the University for the purchase of research equipment. Of this amount $2,000 went to the Faculty of Agriculture.

With this sum the equipment for a laboratory for the study of plant nutrition was established. The time, the temperature, and the general conditions under which various plant nutrients are absorbed, and how they are used by the plant, are being studied in a series of extensive experiments.

Hand in hand with the laboratory studies the college is carrying on field tests with various fertilizers and treatments. Although the work has been but newly established some very interesting and valuable results have already been obtained.

YOUR BABY and MINE

For Mother's Health and Baby's Comfort

USE DISCRETION IN GIVING SUN BATHS

Since the craze for sun baths descended upon us and sun suits blossomed forth as the ultra costume for small children, mothers have thrown good sense out of the window and set poor babies to steaming and toasting in the hot sun as if such a procedure would solve all their difficulties. It is the same principle as: If one spoonful of medicine would cure an ailment ten spoonfuls would do ten times as much good!

Mrs. A.M.D. expresses what I have felt for some time: "Please, Mrs. E. say something in the subject of sun baths for small children. I have seen children from two to four out for a whole afternoon, without a bit of shade. Their mothers used more heat than wisdom, convinced that they were pursuing the right course. I enjoy your practical articles."

REAL TORTURE

Thank you, Mrs. D. Perhaps the best cure one could devise for these shortsighted mothers would be to sentence them to several hours in the hot sun minus protective clothes and hats. They would soon understand what torture children can suffer when subjected to an immediate dose of summer sun.

In hot weather the best time for babies' sunbaths is before 10 o'clock. The sunbaths should be protected with light cotton garments and sun

MISS K. AGNEW PRESENTS HONORS

Interesting Address Given to Students of B.C. Dramatic School

Miss Kathleen Agnew addressed a large audience and the students of the B.C. Dramatic School in the theatre of the school on Saturday evening, and awarded badges of honor and merit to the following students: Honors badge to Roy Goldsmith, Margaret Whyte, Ted Coton, Hazel Wright, Valentine Harko, Helen Coton, Lillian Toye, Margaret Goldsmith, Victoria Ebbs-Canavan. These are awarded for three or four years of creditable work in the school. The badges of merit were presented to Rose Gordon, Buntie Ballie, Harold Ebbs-Canavan, Gladys Bailey, Joan Pinhorn, Guste Jones, Billie Ingalls, Doreen Burgess, Lucille Mackay, Cicely Gooey, Leslie Japon. Miss Agnew spoke of the excellence of the programme presented, which reflected such credit upon the teaching received and the time and patience so generously expended.

Major Bullock-Webster thanked the speaker for her address, and the audience for their interest and enthusiasm. The programme was as follows: Albert Tilley in a little recitation by Seamus Begg, typical and cleverly presented; "Hearts for Sale," an artistic playlet in which Cicely Gooey as Cupid, Gloria Wilson as Daphne and Patricia Swan as the Dove, gave a charming interpretation of a quaint conceit; "Extracts from Julius Caesar," by Billie Ingalls and Gordon E. Read, was unavoidably omitted; "The Brown Paper Parcel," a one-act comedy by Hazel Wright and Gladys Bailey, in costumes of the early thirties, was delightfully funny, and showed great sense of values in two young actresses; Barbara Miller in "Summer Comparisons," and Ted Coton in "The Mechanical Engineer," were warmly applauded; "The Mechanical Engineer," another sparkling comedy, was presented by Margaret Whyte and Valentine Harko, and was a delightful success; ladies whose domestic problems were practically solved by Peggy Oliver as Automaton, in perfect Robot fashion; Helen Coton red with her unusual spirit, "A Protest," and M. Ballie, "The Man from Snowy River," was charmingly acted by Ethel B. Bate, the mother; Herbert E. Port, the father, Hazel, the child, Hazel Wright; Bo-Peep, Lucille Mackay; Roy Blue, Victoria Ebbs-Canavan; Goldie Locke, Margaret Goldsmith; Robin Hood, Barbara Miller; a troubadour, Margaret Hunter; Morgiana, Leslie Japon; Jack of the Beanstalk, Ted Coton; Pandora, Margaret Whyte; first pirate, Billie Ingalls; second pirate, Gordon E. Read. The costumes were by Miss Mary Ebbs-Canavan and Mrs. D. H. Whyte.

Real Cuckoo, who appeared so successfully on Friday evening, gave again, by special request, a selection from "The Wood Carver's Wife," and the playlet "The Yogi's Bones," also on Friday night's programme, was again cleverly enacted by Herbert Port as Lawrence, Roy Goldsmith as Frank and B. V. Carver as Lawrence's father.

Garden Fete—St. Martin's garden fete was a great success on Wednesday on the lawn of Mrs. C. Clegg, George Road West. Mrs. Barrett, Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Symonds did a good business with home cooking. Miss Dods and Miss Howcroft had a very attractive candy stall, and Miss Patricia A. Howcroft, Mrs. Howcroft, with her spiritual jenny attracted both young and old.

Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Dods did well with the miscellaneous stall. Mrs. Denley and Mrs. Barton served lemon cream. Mrs. Butler was convener of tea. Mrs. Butterfield reception and tables. Little Margaret Walsh and Lillian McLeod delighted the audience with their dancing. Mrs. Robinson's Brownies gave very fine exhibitions of drill. Mrs. Macgregor and Mrs. Fisher were responsible for the entertainment.

Children's Sandwiches

When making sandwiches for a children's party, try making ones on the top of them. You can use sliced olives, pimento, cherries, cream cheese or many other edible things to outline nose, eyes and big smiling mouth.

Many women now wear their wedding rings on the third finger of the right hand, instead of the left.

Greeks set the fashion of placing halos around the heads of statues and paintings. They were not used to denote divinity, however, but to protect the heads from rain, being a solid metal plate.

Chatelaine's Editor Is Visiting City

Miss Byrne Hope Sanders of Toronto, editor of The Chatelaine, has been spending the week-end in Victoria as a guest at the Empress Hotel. This is the first time that Miss Sanders has visited Victoria, and in her short stay she has become an ardent admirer of the city's scenery, homes and gardens, the flowers of which she considers have a more vivid coloring than those of eastern Canada. Miss Sanders will leave to-morrow for the mainland en route to her home in Ontario.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. G. A. Harris and Miss Laura Harris have returned to their home in Victoria after a short visit at Sahlam as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weger.

After spending a week in Victoria as the guest of her cousin, Miss Agnes Nesbitt of Pendergast Street, Miss Mary Taylor of Seattle returned to her home by this afternoon's boat.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, 3023 Richmond Avenue, yesterday celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding. A number of their friends called on them and tendered their hearty congratulations and wished them many more years of happiness.

Mrs. J. R. Angus, secretary of the Victoria Island Branch Canadian Authors' Association, who has been representing the local branch, together with Miss M. Eugene Perry and Rev. J. P. Hicks, at the annual convention of the Canadian Authors' Association held last week in Montreal, will visit New York and other eastern cities before returning to her home in Victoria.

YOUR CHILDREN

They say that water will rise no higher than its source. It is just as true of children and parents.

If parents want children to develop all the virtues, grow up free of prejudices and complexes, be truthful, honest, kind and industrious they themselves will have to measure up and not be found wanting.

I know one father who is fond of saying to his friends: "I am not perfect. I do all sorts of things I wouldn't want Dick to do. But I'm no hypocrite—I tell him everything. I don't want him to think I'm an angel when I couldn't grow a pin-feather on a wing. He must remember that people with experience and knowledge know the world much better than he does, and that brings privilege. There are two standards at our house and no cheating. Dick understands."

Well, there is some sterling in his reasoning. No cheating between parents and children is rare enough. And if that's the by-word at his house, I congratulate him. Even his philosophy of reasoning, his way of looking at the privilege of an older person who is experienced, has something about it that we can't dispute. Experience brings judgment and perhaps an older man is justified in his own estimation in doing things that he wouldn't permit his son to do.

But there's that water! Nature's laws don't change. And, again, it strikes me that all the time this boy is saying to himself that "It's all right for Dad to do things I can't do," he's unconsciously making a mental reservation like this: "Some day I'll be a man. When I'm older I'll do like Dad. He knows and he wouldn't do things that were wrong."

For whether we like it or not, our children do imitate us. And, again, whether we like it or not, some day they're going to copy us, particularly when we're at these things like under the shadow of a tree, or in a garden, or on a hill, or in a field, or in a park, or in a woods, or in a meadow, or in a valley, or in a mountain, or in a plain, or in a desert, or in a forest, or in a prairie, or in a tundra, or in a steppe, or in a savanna, or in a Intimate Glimpses
Of Actors' Colony
In Playhouse Film

Intimate glimpses of Hollywood life, the studios, the celebrities' homes and the amusement centres of the screen capital, are afforded as a background to the merry story of "Let's Go Places." Fox Movietone musical extravaganza which is showing at the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

The production is a glittering and well-directed piece of screen entertainment that ranks high among recent melody films. The story, about which many spectacular trappings are hung, concerns a singer and his voluble manager who spend their last cent to come to Hollywood and try their luck in the talkies. The manager decides his client should have a French name, and gives him his mother's maiden name of "Du Bonnet" for its psychological effect on their expected employers.

The tenor's voice wins him a role in a picture and the affection of his film-star affinity, but his new name brings a host of complications about his head.

HAINES SHOWS
FINE ACTING
IN NEW FILM"The Girl Said No" Showing
at Dominion Theatre For Three Days

William Haines' latest all-talking picture, "The Girl Said No," opened a three-day engagement at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

The picture is a sequel to "Brown of Harvard," in which Haines first came to the fore as an outstanding screen comedian.

The featured feminine role is played by Leila Hyams, last seen opposite Haines in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and the supporting cast includes Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, Francis X. Bushman Jr., William Janney, Junior Coghlan, Clara Blandick, Phyllis Crane and William V. Mong.

Haines plays the role of a young man recently graduated from college and up against the business world. His ineffectual attempt to keep a job in a brokerage house and make love at the same time to one of the blonde stenographers result in a series of hilarious situations, interrupted only when his father dies, leaving him to support the family. Haines demonstrates great dramatic ability in this picture.

"Red Hot Rhythm"
Drama of Broadway
Tin Pan Alley Songs

Drama and comedy link hands in this saga of a wise guy taken for a fall, as told in "Red Hot Rhythm," a Pathe talking picture in which Alan Hale plays the part of the Broadway song racketeer, whose very witsness was his weakness.

Josephine Dunn plays the part of an angel-faced "Moll," who gives the bawdy song publisher his trimming. Kathryn Crawford is cast as a night club entertainer, hard-boiled but neither a fool nor a two-timer. Others rounding out the list of notables who figure in this picture with a real savor of the Great White Way are Walter O'Keefe, Ika Chas, Antina Garvin and other notable screen artists.

"Red Hot Rhythm," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, was directed by Leo Maloney, who also wrote the story in collaboration with William Connel-man, supervisor of the production. Earl Baldwin and Walter De Leon contributed some of the snappiest dialogue thus far heard on the talking screen.

Two of the greatest war pictures yet produced will be shown in Victoria shortly. Clifford Denham, manager of the Capitol Theatre, this morning announced the booking of "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "Manager Callaghan," through his Tiffany connections, has arranged to present the great British film "Journey's End" for one week.

HERE'S a comedy with a wallop in every foot! Haines is just a whirlwind of breezy humor. He crashes a party, falls for a girl, meets one set-back after another, and even when she's on the way to marry another chap, won't take "No" for an answer.

Marion Davies Stars
In "Floradora Girl"
At Coliseum TheatreLong Skirts, Laces and Big

Work

The cycle of fashions has returned to the period when the girls were dressed in lace and plumes. Already long skirts and three-quarter length sleeves. The small waistline is also being glimpsed in some of the new styles and from Paris come modest bathing suits and large hats.

At the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, too, the girls have been wearing plumes in their hats and carrying long parasols. In this instance, however, they were wearing costumes of the days of "The Floradora Girl," which is now being shown at the Coliseum Theatre.

From bathing suits to street dresses, from afternoon frocks to elaborate evening gowns, these styles worn by Marion Davies and her feminine supporting cast reveal lines that are startlingly near the modern vogue.

SUNDAY BRINGS
ACCIDENTS AND
LIST OF DEATHS

Toronto, June 30.—A heavy toll of children's lives marked the week-end and a list of deaths at Ontario. Of the eleven persons who lost their lives in drownings, motor car and plane accidents, eight children were killed, while two of the others were youths barely out of their teens.

Two double fatalities in which all four victims were children occurred in the eastern part of the province. Marcel Robillard, six, and Daisy Keating, nine, Ottawa, were both killed when struck by a car at that city, while at Wapese, Ernest and Donald Conger, aged fifteen and sixteen, respectively, were fatally injured in an auto accident.

Margaret Bowes, nine, died as a result of injuries suffered when struck by a car at Burlington.

At Blind River, ten-year-old Francis Lenoire, was drowned while fishing near his home.

William Stickle, twenty, Ridge-town, was killed in a motor collision near Thamesville.

William McArthur, twenty-three, South St. Marie, was drowned when his small motor boat capsized, while at Dunc an McIvor, seventeen, was drowned in a creek near that village. Major John Leach, M.C., thirty-five, Barrie, was the lone aerial fatality reported. He was killed when his plane crashed at Port Arthur.

MONTEAL DEATHS

Montreal, June 30.—Four drownings were reported here, one having occurred Saturday and three yesterday. Seven-year-old Walter Sab, playing on the banks of the Lachine Canal, fell in Saturday afternoon.

Bathing in the St. Francis River at Drummondville yesterday morning, Paul Lavallee, twenty-three, was drowned when the rowboat in which he had left his clothes drifted away. He swam after it and became exhausted.

George Parley, also bathing at Drummondville later in the day, was drowned near the same spot at which Lavallee disappeared.

Murray Aiken Robertson, eleven, was drowned in Lake Louise yesterday afternoon when his boat capsized.

Takes Week's Hard Work
To Arrange Hour's Dance;
Musicians Get Big PayB. A. Rolfe Tells of Band Which Sends Radio
Programmes Over Whole Continent Every Saturday Evening in Lucky Strike Hour; Many in His Orchestra Are Able to Play Ten and Twelve Instruments.

The big Lucky Strike dance orchestra, which sends radio programmes over the continent every Saturday evening in the "Lucky Strike Hour," has taken a week's hard work to arrange the hour's dance; musicians get big pay.

B. A. Rolfe, the band leader, who has been generally understood as from sixteen to eighteen men. A large number was supposed unwieldy, since dance music, like ball playing, depends on teamwork. Therefore when he tried to build up this orchestra for dance purposes to thirty-eight men, we were lacking a difficult problem. It was thought that the man in the northwest corner would not be able to keep time with the man in the southwest corner and that the conductor would not be able to control the many varied and involved interweavings of sound.

"How did you get around the problem, Mr. Rolfe?"

DRUMMER SIGNALS RHYTHM

"In a peculiar way. You remember in the ancient Roman galley how beaters were employed to get concerted action. Well, I use one of my drummers to signal the rhythm, or rather the cardinal points of the rhythm. Maybe sometimes instead of the drum it's the tap of a cymbal or the beat of the bass drum and cymbals. That little electric signal permeates the entire organization. That helps us to perform difficult orchestration as a concerted whole."

BUT DRESS REHEARSAL

For this was Saturday noon instead of Saturday night, and this was merely a dress rehearsal, although time and tempo were strictly adhered to.

It was only when a brief intermission came on the radio that Rolfe, who had been seen at the rehearsal, was seen at the rehearsal.

"He proved most interesting to watch this man of fifty-five who provides what many consider the finest dance music on the air, to which tens of thousands of young feet trip lightly on Saturday nights during its hour of broadcast."

He thought that such orchestra leaders were inevitably exotic and affected in appearance and manner, but here was a famous night club conductor—from the Palais d'Or on Broadway—who looked like a full-fledged monk and acted as naturally as a good-humored farmer. He had a round, placid, red face, yet his shrewd eyes and his right hand, which he shook at times with his intensity.

At the same time, his movements were not violent. Indeed, his solid build moved not at all. Only his two hands, with the right with the baton, the left free, conveyed his command of the thirty-eight players. They did it with casual, almost airy, singularly delicate, wonderfully restrained action. Sometimes with a thumb, but no matter how it moved or how slightly, that soft left hand seemed to talk as singers, instrumentalists, soloists, or came up and crowded to the "mike" to fill the air's foreground.

His general air of casual but supreme mastery was enhanced by his half-smoked cigar which never left the corner of his mouth.

AN UNAFFECTED PERSON

After he had spent half an hour with the arrangers who were to make the final changes in the scores for that evening's broadcast over WEAF I had a chance to chat with him. He proved the same unaffected person in conversation as in conducting, easy, pointed, never wasting a word.

"How much preparation," I asked, "is necessary for the one-hour broadcast Saturday evening?"

"It takes a solid week's work," he said, "to arrange the programme so that it will fit exactly into the time allotted to the very last note. There is no chance in such a programme to make or improvise, since every bar must come out right on the dot. So every note is carefully arranged and the highest degree of teamwork assured."

"This preliminary work is done right here by the arranging department of nine men and a librarian, who work continuously co-ordinating the programmes. When the programme is laid out it is almost ready to go on the air. The dress rehearsal reveals the necessity of only a few changes. These changes are at present being made. To-night, as always, we will go on the air with the finished programme."

"How much rehearsing does the orchestra do?"

"Just what you saw. That was the dress rehearsal. Before that we ran through the scores a little. But the only rehearsing we ever do is on Saturdays before noon."

"Do you mean that the orchestra sits right down and plays as I heard it, all those involved passages of many instruments, with no other rehearsal but that?"

"For indeed that seemed wonderful to me, knowing little about either orchestras or radio."

"Certainly. Of course, some of them have done individual practicing, but they can sit right down and play together orchestral. The reason lies in the fact that the National Broadcasting Company has at its command for such orchestras as this the most proficient musicians in the business."

"But can an orchestra like this play a piece some of them have never seen before?"

"You will find many have played different arrangements of the numbers. Many have played the melodies. But that is little guide for individual parts, since the arranging department may have changed the standard setting very materially. However, that is why these men are paid big salaries."

GETS $1,000 WEEKLY

"Benella, the steel guitar player who doubles the sax, gets from $850 to $1,000 a week. Many of these men can play eight, nine or twelve different instruments. Some of them lead bands themselves. No one can play but the most dependable. We have the most dependable pianist in the studios, Rom Gorman, who is as celebrated a reed player as there is in the business. In the violin section there are three masters. The first violin is played by 'Billy' Aris, who has Lucien Smith, solo cellist, and Phil Napoleon, whom the country will remember from one of the earliest jazz bands, the Memphis Trio."

"But even so it's remarkable, isn't it that they can perform so wonderfully?"

"You must remember that the most competent violinist for radio, it's not the Heifetz but the man who can read his music at night, intelligently and well, and can conform to the light concert and salon type of music as well as the dance music. Each job calls for a different versatility. It's like being able to use different accents or having a capacity of talk-slang."

Mr. Rolfe spoke of the peculiar prob-

CONSERVATIVE PARTY SPLIT IN ONTARIO RIDING

Belleville, Ont., June 30.—Alleging "gross irregularities" at the recent Conservative convention in Prince Edward, Lennox, Ont., John Hubbs has announced he will enter the Federal election campaign in opposition to Brig.-General B. H. Hephurn, official nominee of the party. Mr. Hubbs, who represented the constituency in the last House, was defeated in the convention by General Hephurn.

the audience usually within a few feet of the "mike." It is always a problem to eliminate noises which you do not wish transmitted. There is always the fear of voices or exclamations, possibly unpleasant, cutting in. Of course, there is none of that in the studio broadcast.

"But I meant, rather, Mr. Rolfe, the difference to the listener."

"Oh, yes, I see. The distant listener gets a better ensemble. You do not get as good a balance in the room where the music originates as you do at the reception end of a broadcast. Of course, on the other hand, broadcast music loses something. You know the old saying that blind people do not or cannot enjoy smoking because of the loss of the sense of sight as an aid to the sense of taste and smell. Similarly with dance music, when seeing the players there is an added sense process besides hearing which helps appreciation. The personality of the players and of the conductor are necessarily lost to a degree when the music is broadcast. But that will be all fixed up when we get television." And the keen eyes smiled, lighting up the glowing, eager face of this maker of music for the radio masses.

"I had heard that Mr. Rolfe was a movie pioneer long before radio was actively thought of. He was, I was told, an early partner of J. L. Lasky. I asked him about this hurriedly, for I knew there was no chance to pursue it through."

"Yes," said Mr. Rolfe, "I made two-thirds of the output of one movie firm for two years, as manufacturer and producer."

"Were you interested in music then?"

"There has been a Rolfe orchestra since 1935. It was started by my father-in-law, northern New York, up near Malone. My father, indeed, only retired some two years ago. During the time I was producing movies, he was running the Rolfe orchestra."

"Before becoming involved in the movie did you conduct?"

"Oh, yes. I was conducting for a period considerably prior to my movie experiences. I played the cornet always as a vociferous music was my real hobby. So when I succeeded in losing in the movies all the money I could get hold of I adopted my hobby as my real profession. Some people say the shoe-maker should stick to his last. I rose I should never have strayed away from music."

"You get more happiness out of music than the movies?"

"Much more. Music is the vocation in which I am comfortable, confident and competent. I have no interest now in the movies at all."

"Do you get much reaction from your dance broadcasts?"

"A tremendous one. I get letters from South America and from dance bands so far north I did not believe any could have existed there. They write asking me to settle arguments about a particular number, whether it was played by a hot trumpet or the soprano sax. That gives you a feeling of really being in touch with the world. There is a sort of—how to term it—comradery, the personal touch, a little bit of feeling that one had really the power to talk to the world."

Billie Dove is Star of "Sweethearts and Wives" at Capitol Theatre

All the action of "Sweethearts and Wives," the Billie Dove starring vehicle opening to-day at the Capitol Theatre, for a three day run, takes place in one night and early morning.

The story concerns a hunt for a stolen diamond necklace. A French maid, played by Billie Dove, and English divorcee detective, Clive Brook, and an English Lord, Crauford Kent, are all interested in regaining the jewels, but through far different motives.

A lonely French inn in the South of France has been chosen for the rendezvous and return of the diamond. All those interested are there. Into this house of mystery stumble a pair of aristocrats, Tony Peel, (Sidney Blackmer), and Angles Worthington (Leila Hyams). They have run out of gas and can go no further.

From these added elements the mystery grows and grows. There is a murder, a robbery, an automobile accident, and of course a love affair. Everything turns out all right in the end, as things do on the movies.

This picture is directed by Clarence Badger and includes such actors as Billie Dove, the star, Sidney Blackmer, Leila Hyams, Clive Brook, John Loder, Crawford Kent, and Fletcher Norton.

The Bride Wants
Something Helpful

Certainly there is nothing that adds more to the bride's pleasure and convenience than electrical servants.

IN HER kitchen, where she'll spend perhaps, one-sixth of her life, she deserves the things that make cooking a pleasure rather than a task.

FOR that dream of a home she will need labor-saving appliances and dainty lamps that will bring convenience and pleasure into her daily life.

Hendon Plane Show Is Greatest Yet Seen

All Kinds of Aircraft, From Tiny Planes to New Types and Great Dirigible, Share in British Display

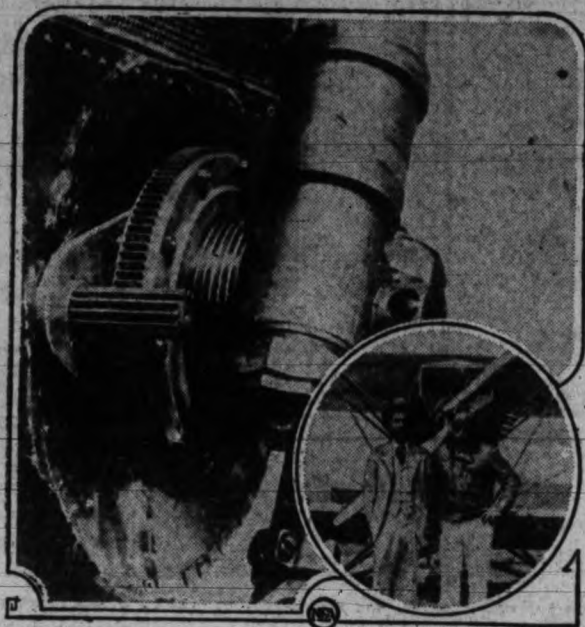

Hendon, Eng., June 30.—Aircraft scorching through the atmosphere at 200 miles an hour, monster ships and tiny ships, flopping ships and steady ships, all kinds of aircraft, to the number of 200, were gathered here Saturday at the great aerial display staged by the Royal Air Force.

The gate exceeded that of the derby, England's greatest horse race, so great was the interest in this greatest exhibition of the modern marvels of the air, for probably at no time and in no place had so many aircraft been gathered together in one place.

It was a six hour circus—the modern circus. The dirigible R-101 sailed its stately way across the sky. There were manoeuvres by large formations of planes, parachute jumps, flying upside-down, "crazy" flying and physical jerks by a squadron of nine planes. The squadron, linked by elastic cords, looped simultaneously, carrying streamers. A weird turn was supplied by an auto-gyro with its huge four-blade windmill climbing very slowly at forty-five degrees. The gyro demonstration was followed by a mimic, the mimic being a "gundung" Handley-Page equipped with slots to imitate the gyro's every move. A tailless poerdactile flopped around like a freak at incredibly low speed, while a new interceptor climbed three miles in eight minutes and scorched around on the level at 200 miles to the hour. The proceeds of the show were divided between the Royal Air Force and charities.

SHIFTING GEARS ON PLANE

By means of a staggered propeller, invented by Bert Hawkins, left, and Gordon Sackett of Santa Barbara, Calif., it is now possible to "change gears" on an airplane while in flight and alter the propeller's pitch. This gear shifting is said to save motor labor by cutting its revolution to nearly half, and to allow about one-third greater speed. A closeup of the gears of the propeller is shown above.

An appetizing summer salad can be made from radishes and green peppers, cut in very thin slices, served on lettuce with French dressing into which some onion has been grated.

A technical commission has been formed by the Spanish government to make recommendations for direct wireless and telephone communication between Argentina and Spain.

AS BLENHEIM WON THE DERBY

Blenheim—by a length! This photo shows the thrilling finish of England's great classic—the Derby—run at Epsom. At the left, victorious at 15-1 odds, is Blenheim, owned by Aga Khan, fabulously wealthy Indian prince and Mohammedan leader. Illad is second and Diolite, on the rail, third, just a nose ahead of Silver. The stands, shown in the background, were jammed by half a million spectators, including the King, Queen and Prince of Wales. At the left Aga Khan, Blenheim and Harry Wragg, the jockey who rode him to the winning purse. "It is a wonderful day for me," said the Moslem sportsman. "But, you know, I didn't have a penny bet on Blenheim!"

MODEL PLANE PRIZES GIVEN

Ottawa, June 30.—In connection with the annual model aircraft contest, which will be held here July 4 and 5, the scale non-flying model judging took place Saturday. Models were shipped to Ottawa by boys in various parts of Canada. Seventeen entries were received. The judges were group captain, E. W. Stedman, chief of the department of National Defence, T. D. Rankin and H. C. Tupper. The winners were: Senior class—Southern Trophy, Victor B. Hill, Vancouver; Cup, Brametia St. John of Winnipeg. Junior class—Dunlop trophy, O. Richardson, Montreal; Cup, Donald Rankin, Ottawa; Medal, J. McKenzie, Calgary.

RAINS RELIEVE PRAIRIE CROP FEARS, SAYS C.P.R.

Generous precipitation over the prairie, east of Alberta, has relieved the situation which was threatening serious, according to the crop report issued today by the Department of Agriculture, of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Sub-soil moisture is still the chief requirement in all three prairie provinces, in which crops are reported in various stages of development. Manitoba's crop condition is generally good, with wheat in short blade of height varying from ten to twenty inches and early sown fields coming into head. Coarse grains, thought patchy, are showing good growth.

In north and northeastern Saskatchewan the moisture content of the soil is improved and crops look healthy, especially wheat. In the northwest section, there is still some loss from cutworms. In the southern and central area of the middle province the crops vary, but are chiefly on the short side and coming into short blade, with old fields heading out. North, central and western Alberta have had "fine good showers" of heavy rain for the last few days and crops are showing a fair stand. In the south the crops have benefited by heavy rains, show good stand with wheat ten to eighteen inches high. Further rains, however, are needed.

Prospects for a fair crop of fall rye in the three provinces depend on the showers which will help the grain at the filling-out stage. Summer fallowing is well advanced, 80 to 75 per cent reported as completed and much new breaking reported in various parts. Sweet clover and other fodder crops vary from fair to good. Hail damage is reported in a few points in Manitoba and Alberta.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christian Science" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 30.

"Sing, O heavens, and be joyful, O earth, and break forth into singing, O mountains, for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted" (Isaiah 49:13), was one of the Scriptural texts contained in the lesson-lesson.

(48: "Divine Science derives its sanction from the Bible, and the divine origin of Science is demonstrated through the holy influence of truth in life.")

healing sickness and sin. This healing power of truth must have been for an earlier to the period in which Jesus lived."

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Victoria Girls' Band are the recipients of the gift of a handsome drum-major's baton from the Victoria Legion of the Loyal Order of Moose.

The action of White vs. Norrington in the Supreme Court opened this morning before Mr. Justice Fisher and is proceeding this afternoon.

The monthly meeting of the British Columbia Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association will be postponed until Tuesday, July 2, so as not to clash with the Dominion Day holiday.

BERRIES EARN GOOD RETURNS

J. C. Grant, Markets' Commissioner, Reports Saanich Fruit Well Handled

"Vancouver Island strawberry growers this year staged a splendid comeback to the critics made last year regarding berry shipments to the prairies. Never have such splendid returns been sent to the prairies before," commented J. C. Grant, markets commissioner, this morning, stating upon his return to Victoria from Calgary.

"While Saanich growers only shipped sixteen cars of berries to the prairies, compared with thirty-nine cars which went east last year, the packing was excellent, and the fruit arrived in the very pink of condition. They were never better," said Mr. Grant.

"Commenting on the growing power of the prairie commission this year, which is very low, the island berries sold at a very good price indeed.

"As an example of the quality of the fruit and the demand, a carload of fruit was received from Fort William and after consulting with H. P. Tanner and myself by wire, our Winnipeg wholesaler accepted the bid. The fruit arrived in perfect condition and we understand brought premium prices," said Mr. Grant.

Mayor Ansoncomb Reviews National Progress in Address at Beacon Hill

Dominion Day Service Attended By Great Audience Yesterday

A large audience yesterday afternoon attended the community service held in Beacon Hill Park under the direction of the Dominion Day celebration committee. Mayor Ansoncomb gave the address, speaking on Confederation, the events which led to the union of the provinces and the consistent progress which has marked Canada since July 1, 1867, when confederation was formally promulgated.

The mayor said the gathering was animated by a spirit of reverent thankfulness that Canada had become a perfect link in the chain of Empire. After tracing the development of Canada from the voyagers and fur traders in the days of Champlain, the founder of Quebec in 1608, he showed that French rule continued until 1763, when Canada became British territory.

Mayor Ansoncomb recalled the founding of the colony of Vancouver Island by Sir James Douglas in 1843, the development of self government in 1858, the formation of the colony of British Columbia two years later and the union of the two in 1866.

He said that union of the provinces of Canada was first mooted in 1789, and finally achieved in 1867, with Manitoba admitted in 1870, British Columbia the following year and Prince Edward Island two years later. The creation of the Province of Alberta and Saskatchewan in 1905 was also touched upon.

"And now what of the future? We have much for which to give thanks. Membership in the British Empire is a valuable and precious thing," said the Mayor. "It matters not in what small corner of the Empire we were born, our birthright gives us a freedom which has kept our race in the forefront of nations."

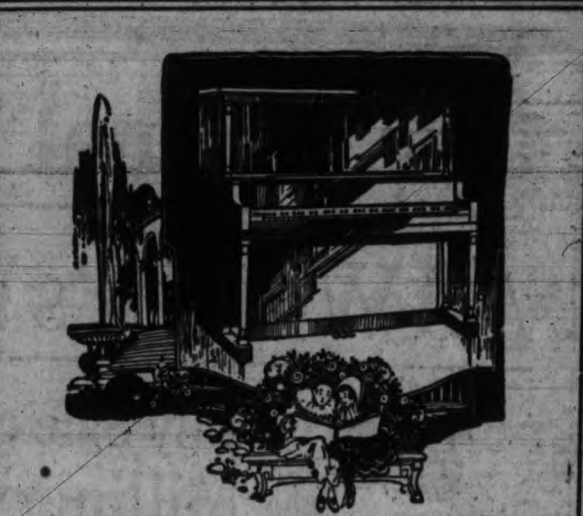

"Our Dominion is still in the making. Much has been accomplished, but much remains to be done. The hour and the need produced courageous spirits who carried high the banner. There is still need for men and women ready and willing to make sacrifices with courage, perseverance, and goodwill."

"We are all aware that there is a good deal of social unrest. This is not the place to suggest a remedy for any of the ills that afflict us, but it is to remember that no one man or group of men can conjure up material prosperity by magical wand."

"The people of Canada must shoulder to shoulder in finding a solution."

PEACE PROBLEMS

The Mayor pointed to the peace and friendship between this Dominion and the great republic to the south, remarking: "We just take out happy relations for granted. We can be sure that this state will long continue, and the place to suggest a remedy for any of the ills that afflict us, but it is to remember that no one man or group of men can conjure up material prosperity by magical wand."

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)
Winnipeg, June 30.—Wheat: Weakness in Liverpool, export business over the week-end very disappointing, combined with general rains over the Canada and the past forty-eight hours, gave the wheat market a weak tone to-day, and lacking adequate support prices declined about 1½ cents from the close on Saturday and while there were a few slight upturns they were apparently difficult to hold.

Trade volume was not large and appeared to be mostly spreading, selling July against purchases of the deferred months. The general news was all bearish. Liverpool closed 2½ to 2½ lower, their July at 61.00 flat, the lowest in many years. Exports were insignificant and confined to a few scattered loads.

Generous rains in the west seem to assure a crop well above average despite certain damage that has already been taken place. The wheat crop of Hungary was officially estimated at 1,600,000 bushels and rye at 30,000,000 bushels compared with 71,840,000 and 23,000,000 respectively a year ago.

European weather continues favorable and most crops are in good condition with a good average yield promised with the exception of Italy which this year will have a short crop. World's shipments last week totaled 1,600,000 bushels of which North America received 1,600,000 bushels, larger than last week, but this was offset by an increase of 2,416,000 bushels in on passage supplies.

The demand for wheat was rather indifferent, but offerings were not pressing and spreads were unchanged. No change in flour situation. The Canada visible supply of wheat is 1,600,000 bushels, while the U.S. visible decreased 2,166,000 bushels, some what larger than expected. Wheat closed 1½ to 1 cent lower with shorts covering the close.

This market will be closed until Wednesday account Dominion Day Tomorrow.

Flax: The feature of this market was a little scattered transactions in July otherwise no feature with demand generally slow. Closing prices 6 cents to 1-3 lower.

Coarse grains: The feature of these markets was the liquidation in July oats and barley, with all futures lower and following the trend of wheat.

THE PEACOCK'S TAIL

By
Mrs. ROMILLY FEDDEN

"Of course, my General," Concha agreed, taking the seat at his right hand. "Don't apologize. Don't explain. But will you give me coffee, and some one give me bread and butter? I have been through adventures, such adventures." She sighed, her chin in the air, looking from one to another around the table. A poor lot it was which to build the glory of Spain, always excepting D'Astorga and the boy Cortes. And into her mind there came the face of Leslie Stewart, and into her ears the sound of his words, "In every thing that counts you're English." Supposing she had been mistaken these last years! The glory of Spain in that purposeless figure at her side? She threw up her head and turned her eyes to the fine young face of the boy. She smiled at him. D'Astorga answered for him with his own delightful humorous words.

"Ah, senorita, Cortes has not eaten or slept since you left us."

The boy colored, and they all laughed.

"And no one asks me why I am here," Concha cried. "Here have I come through incredible hardships, and no one says a word. And yet," she leaned forward, speaking incisively, "I have important information! May I speak, General?"

The General puffed importantly. "Si, senorita, si."

She leaned forward, addressing the table rather than the commanding officer, addressing herself to intelligence rather than to authority. A mistake.

"From London I have the assurance that the Moors of El Foukara are on the verge of an insurrection."

The General laughed. "And the senorita comes through great dangers and she says herself great dangers," he paused, "to tell us this canard from London." His shrug of incredulity ran around the table, but stopped at D'Astorga.

He bowed to the girl, who had flushed at the insolence of the General's words and danger. "The daughter of the kaid has never failed us yet," he said courteously. "Your Excellency knows of what value the natives, the language, yes, I know that we all speak Arabic, but not the senorita speaks it. She has averted disaster more than once."

"Through information from the natives," growled the General. "That is different. Who knows? This story from London may be a ruse of the Allies to recall our troops, yes. The girl was vivid. 'It is not,' she cried to D'Astorga. 'It is not. We have emptied the garrisons here, everywhere, in a false security. El Foukara is in danger. There is a plot and they have us at their mercy!'"

The General cleared his throat, picking up the opinions of his staff by a hasty glance. The prevailing expression was derisive. A long habit of contempt for the native had bred a false security. D'Astorga alone gave him back in his grave glance a momentary pause.

The General spoke with a clumsy attempt at lightness. "And what would you have us do to meet this—er—rising? El Foukara is peaceful, the natives go about as usual."

"Recall the troops," the girl's voice was clear, unfaltering. "Send a messenger to D'Astorga. Recall the regiments."

D'Astorga's grave, measured tones repeated her words. "Your Excellency, recall the regiments?"

"And miss the coup in Fez?" Cortes' boyish voice rang out, with protest.

"To miss the coup in Fez is to postpone for a day our further march into Morocco," D'Astorga spoke urgently. "To win our coup in Fez and lose El Foukara is to lose our Empire in Morocco. What is Fez without El Foukara? I beg you to recall the regiments, sir."

But the General was peevish. He had drunk too much the night before. His head ached, he could not make so momentous a decision. His gaze vacillated from D'Astorga to his evil genius who, with hardly moving lips, murmured "proofs."

The General pushed back his chair.

upon the bed, and was lost in the heavy sleep of exhaustion.

CHAPTER XXI

As Leslie robed himself in the garments of a Moorish merchant of the better class, his thoughts were of Concha. Safe-conduct, indeed. What was safety, what was life without her? Where was she? In Foukara? And when should they meet? For meet again they must.

The spirit of romance was about him. He would live to the height of these memorable moments, moments transcending reality. Life was in such a mood. To Concha was given the gift of transfiguring the barren everyday world with the light wherein heroes live and great deeds are done. Thrilling with the thoughts of all the day, he might hold, he went down the stairs and passed Fitzgerald's critical inspection. His hands folded in the simple sleeves of his robe, with the slow step imposed by the heeled shoes of red Morocco, he looked like any dignified young Moor.

"You'll do," Fitzgerald said. "Concha Nicholson herself would not know you. He stooped to light a cigarette, his head bent. "She has been at headquarters all the morning. Result—El Ka has got the wind up at last. A mounted regiment sent out of the Bab gate an hour ago. I'll take you to the Duke's recall. He won't get far. The Spanish in Foukara must be given a lesson before the news through to turn back the columns to their succor. Then French Morocco is saved."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Brown Tails

(Copyright, 1930)

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"But, Daddycum, can't we have any fun at all on Fourth of July?" asked Jingle one morning a few days before the glorious holiday.

"Can't we have some fireworks?" asked Jangle, sadly.

Uncle Wiggily sat on the black porch. On the steps, and round about him in a half circle, stood many of his little rabbit girls and boys eagerly waiting for his answer. Baby Bunty, the little burpian rabbit, was also there. She said:

"Oh, I want you to have fun," spoke Mr. Longears. "But I don't want any of you to get hurt or hurt. That's why I said you could not have any fireworks or other things that make dangerous, banging noises. But I'll take you to the woods for a picnic, you won't get far. The Spanish in Foukara must be given a lesson before the news through to turn back the columns to their succor. Then French Morocco is saved."

"I thought you said we couldn't have any fireworks," said Jingle.

"I said you couldn't have fireworks or banging noises that might hurt you," his father answered. "But I will set off some fireworks for you at night, which you may watch. I know how to do this without getting burned myself or doing any harm. Now don't tease me any more, but hop along and play. When Fourth of July comes you shall see what happens."

The rabbit girls and boys gathered round their father. They had been told that they could not have any fireworks that were dangerous. The boy rabbits were the first to cry out against this, and the girl rabbits to go with them to tease their father and ask him if they couldn't shoot off something to have fun on the holiday.

But Uncle Wiggily said "No." He knew that it meant better that they should have fun, but he had to tell his children, to have burned faces and cut noses from too much fun on Fourth of July.

So, after speaking to Uncle Wiggily on the back porch, the rabbit children and Baby Bunty hopped away not feeling very happy. They very much wanted fireworks and sky rockets and things like that.

"I want you to have fun," spoke Mr. Longears. "But I don't want any of you to get hurt or hurt. That's why I said you could not have any fireworks or other things that make dangerous, banging noises. ## Thousands Visited New C.N. Steamer Saturday

Public Inspection in Evening Attracted Many Victorians to New Ship; Sister Ship Here in August; Prince Robert Going to South America.

A crowd estimated at 5,000 visited the new Canadian National steamer Prince Henry as she lay at her berth in the inner harbor on Saturday evening, following her complimentary cruise during the afternoon. It was the first time that the new ship had been open to the public.

From 5 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock at night hundreds of Victorians poured over the gangplank and inspected the magnificent new steamer. At times the crowds became so dense that people were lined five and six deep from the docks up the roadway to the post office building.

At 9 o'clock the time the ship was posted to leave for Vancouver, several hundred people were turned away, unable to gain admittance to the ship.

The Prince Henry will return to Victoria tomorrow with an excursion party from New Westminster aboard. She will leave the Royal City on the Prince at 8 o'clock in the morning and return to Victoria at 8 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be the last appearance of the Prince Henry here for some time, as Thursday night she will leave Vancouver on her first trip to Alaska, in which service she will operate in future.

was greeted with a chorus of whistles and general din and clatter from all other steamers in the harbor, and from fags and yachts tied up at the various wharves. In the afternoon, returning to her pier, the Princess Marguerite was complimented by the breakwater and she dipped her flag to the new ship.

As the guests were leaving the steamer on Saturday afternoon Capt. Walter C. Brown took up a collection for the Seamen's Institute, a good sum being gathered.

The Prince Henry's sister ship, the Prince David, which will inaugurate a tri-city service between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle, will leave Birkhead shortly for this coast. She will commence her new service about August 10. The third ship of the trio will not be seen in Victoria this year, according to reports on Saturday she will sail from Birkhead to Halifax in September, and will take a special excursion trip from that port to South America. She will not arrive in Victoria or Vancouver until the spring of next year, when she will augment the tri-city service of the Prince David.

Big Empress Ship Docks in Quebec

Quebec, June 30.—The Empress of Australia, the third Empress liner to dock in the port of Quebec in a week, made its appearance Saturday afternoon from Europe with a heavy list of passengers.

Capt. B. B. Brown, commander, reported an uneventful trip across the Atlantic. Lady Eaton of Toronto, widow of Sir John Eaton, president of the T. Eaton Co., Winnipeg, Toronto, together with Messrs. G. and T. J. Eaton, were travelers on board the liner returning to their home in the Queen City. Col. H. C. Osborne of Ottawa, honorary secretary of the Canadian Battlefields Memorial Commission, en route to Ottawa, where he will report on progress being made on the Ypres memorial, was another passenger.

The cruise on which the Prince Henry took about 800 Victorians on Saturday was voted an outstanding success by all who were present. The ship left the pier at 10 o'clock in the morning. Several sittings of luncheon were necessary to handle the large number of passengers aboard. With Capt. Dan Donald on the bridge, the Prince Henry, after clearing the inner harbor, steamed out towards Race Rocks and making a turn there proceeded as far as Port Townsend, where the ship was headed back for Victoria.
